LETTER FROM SALEM.

SALEM, Oct 25, 1875

To the Editor of the Oregonian

After a "bonanza" having closed for the year 1875 our city has settled into its custom[illegible] of routine once more, and matters and things are moving along with their accus[tomed] smoothness. The annual State Fair [was] the biggest thing of the season and [the] participants of the same went home feeling [that] it had been good for them [to be] there. To be sure they met with some [annoy]ances, the greatest of which was the [abundant] supply of dust to be found on every [road]. Oregonians from every part of the State [were] obliged to get outside of their regular peck of [dust], and [illegible] answere the inquiries made [illegible] the powers that be had not made better [provision] for sprinkling the grounds [illegible] weather, however, is very [illegible] [and] every one knows, as the time approaches [for] the annual session of the State Fair, that [a] welcome mist will set in, answering the double purpose of sprinkling the ground and [keeping] would-be attendants at home. So [illegible] in this same weather that [illegible] at a loss how to proceed be[illegible] a liberal use of water [illegible] may have the effect of [illegible] to a too prolific supply before the week closes. The society feel much encouraged by the liberal receipts of the past [two] years, and are already counting on and [illegible] arrangements for a larger and better display of productions, goods and [illegible] next year, when our country celebrates [its] one-hundredth birthday. It is confidently [expected] that both Yankee Doodle and Hail Columbia will be present on that occasion, [they] having been engaged to appear for a short season under a partial release from a long en[gagement] at Philadelphia, on an occasion sec[ond] only in point of significance to the Oregon State Fair in pleasant weather. [Outlanders] and Salemites alike imagine, perhaps, they see it all by attending the Fair during the day time. Your correspondent thought so too until quite recently, when he found, by actual experience, that the

THE FAIR BY FIRE AND LAMP LIGHT

[was] quite another and none the less interesting sight than the same thing seen by day light. At the suggestion of one who had been there, we concluded to visit the grounds in the evening, and chose Thursday evening of Fair week for our purpose. Hailing a passing coach with lantern on either side, we mounted the driver's seat and sallied forth on our tour of observation. Entering into conversation with our [illegible] that loquacious John we are [illegible] to the amount of his [illegible] during the week then only two-thirds [illegible] The vehicle he drove could conven[iently] [illegible] He had six horses and employed an assistant, charging passengers [illegible] of 25 cents each way. [He] ran his hack night and day, and had at [illegible] taken in about $95, and expected before the close of the week to swell his earnings up to the sum of $175 in hard coin. This per[haps] was an exceptional case, but the average [illegible] be placed at $100 per week, which [illegible] the [illegible] of vehicles running [illegible] at the work

[illegible] what, however, and [illegible] the thread of our dis[course] [illegible] of the city [illegible] ahead of us we could see the [illegible] lighted [illegible] The flames of a thou[sand] bonfires, while [illegible] usually [illegible] [illegible] view by the [illegible] [illegible] combined that [illegible] and surrounded [illegible] the [illegible] at the railroad [illegible] a stroll through the camps. The hour being early, supper was in many [instances] not yet over, and wives and mothers were busy preparing the evening meal, [illegible] were eating while many were [illegible] the debris, and a few, worn out with the [illegible] and heat of the day, were [illegible] campfires threw a ghastly hue over the whole scene, giving it a wierd, wild appearance, peculiarly [illegible] to the unaccustomed eye. Strange forms and figures showed themselves on the snow white canvass, as we on the outside watched the shadows of those inside the tents busying themselves with the duties of the hour. Children and half-grown boys and girls were visible everywhere and in fact appeared to predominate. Babies wearied and tired from being pulled and hauled about during the day were tuning up on every hand. Youngsters of all ages were dodging in and out among the camp fires, apparently enjoy[ing] the novelty of their surroundings as only the young and careless can. The boys and girls of that age who for the first time feel the tender passion, were pairing off for the festivities of the evening, intending perhaps to at[tend] some one of the many amusements on the grounds. Older heads at the business were [illegible] at each other, waiting only [illegible] the old folks to "mosey off to bed" to [illegible] at us at times from beneath a broad brimmed hat, and we could but feel that the [illegible] were vultures after prey, and had we [illegible] present we would have [illegible] against associates of that caliber [illegible] finds out when it is too [late] the character of these men, and date a [illegible] ruin from State Fair week. Fair [illegible] too much of this world's wicked[ness] [illegible] at such times as these to ever again dote [illegible] own innocence. Noise noise noise of [every] imaginable kind greets us on every [side]. Its causes are as varied as are the scenes that surround us. The sound of the human voice intermingled with the neighing of horses, the lowing of cattle, barking of dogs [illegible] strokes of the descending ax [illegible] We are nearing the wide-[spread] tent of the Y. M. C. A., where divine services are being held under the leadership of that energetic worker in Christ's vineyard Rev [illegible] Chattin, of your city. Much good is being accomplished right here, and as we pass we thank God for such men as Chattin and his fellow workers. Presenting our ticket at the railroad gate we enter the enclosure and are surprised to see the crowd present. [illegible] [the] [illegible] is closed and closely guarded by vigi[lant] night-watch. Bands of music are playing in and around the various places of amuse[ment]. Strong lunged criers are urging upon the crowd the necessity of paying the required price of admission and attending this or that show. Wilson's circus, Rockwell & Hurl[burt's] horse show and Wood's Muse[um] are packed to overflowing while almost innumerable side-shows are equally patronized. Venders of goods at the [illegible] stands, which are brilliantly lighted [by] kerosene or the less expensive tallow [candle], are straining their lungs in setting forth the excellent qualities of their goods and "five cigars for a quarter of a dollar" [illegible] on every hand. We invested in these [illegible] last year and haven't lost now this [illegible] [illegible] pleadings to purchase never phaz[e] us. [illegible] strange faces surround us although [occasionally] hear a familiar [illegible] and [gladly] respond to a cordial grasp of the hand of one we've not met [illegible]. Every booth is lighted up and [illegible] during the day. Infatuated swains w[illegible] [illegible] blossoms on their arm [illegible] money up and invest their [illegible] soda water and peanuts [illegible] amusing to behold. The swings are [illegible] while those cheap musicians grind [illegible] sounds out of those horrible violins [illegible] enamored couples go promenading around hand in hand while beneath the friendly shades of an overhanging bough or shelter[ing] [illegible] we notice loving hearts [illegible] indulging in demonstrative sighs [illegible] highly suggestive of "Happy hours [illegible] orange flowers, white gloves and wedding [illegible]." With this tender scene still lingering [in] memories of the evening we yield to the persuasive tones of an enthusiastic hack man who assures us "everybody goes to Sa[lem]" and we go realizing that for the first time we have seen our country cousins in all their glory

CIRCUIT COURT

Has just closed its October term, the docket being rather light. But two criminal cases were disposed of; that of the State vs White man being the most important. He was found guilty of mayhem on the person of one Watkins, the jury recommending him to the mercy of the court. A motion was at once made for a new trial and sentence will be stayed until the [illegible] The other criminal case was that of a colored man named Rogers, who was unfortunate enough about two months ago to relieve Wagner & Hovey's money drawer of the paltry sum of fifty cents. He was at once arrested, tried, bound over, and sent to jail to await the action of the grand jury. They found a true bill and the trial resulted in his conviction and sentence to the county jail for a period of twelve days and the county costs, the bill. Rather an expensive trial for so trivial an offense. Several divorce cases were decided and unhappy marriages disposed of

DEATH OF A PRINTER

Among the sad events of the week was the death and burial of Emmet D Williams a well known type of this city. He had been sick for some time and his death was scarcely unexpected and though it was. His funeral, which took place on Sunday last, was numerously attended. The printers held a meeting at E. M. Waite's on Saturday and resolved to attend the meeting in a body, appointing a committee likewise to draft appropriate resolutions of condolence. Tiger Engine Co No 5 of which he was an honored and efficient member took like action, and over fifty members in uniform took part in the ceremonies, while twenty four representatives of the art preservative added to the impressiveness of the occasion by their respectful attendance. The funeral took place at 2 P M, services being conducted by Rev Addison Jones of the Baptist Church. The procession of relatives and friends that followed his remains to their last resting place was one of the largest that has passed through our streets for months. Emmet was an exemplary young man and a large circle of friends sympathise with his young wife and his father's family in this their sore bereavement

EX GOV ISHAM G HARRIS ON THE UNION

At the reunion of the Seventh Tennessee regiment of Confederate cavalry, held at Brownsville Tennessee on the 8th instant, ex Governor Isham G Harris delivered an address in which he made the following patriotic remarks

When we surrendered our arms in 1865 we surrendered with them the issues of the war. And however strong the conviction that, as questions of constitutional law and logic we were right—and I feel assured that every man who voluntarily put his life upon the issue honestly believed himself right—yet, having submitted the questions to the arbitrament of arms by which they were settled against us, every consideration of public duty, good citizenship, and individual interest demand that we should recognize, and in good faith conform to the letter and spirit of that settlement. With the joy of this reunion there should linger no feelings of bitterness or resentment. With the memory of honorable and glorious achievements in that memorable struggle there should exist no lurking hostility to the prosperity and perpetuity of the Union. Devotion to your Government, State and Federal, is one of the duties of citizenship, and devotion to the Union, existing as it does, by the arbitrament of arms, is not inconsistent with a just pride in the prowess of the soldier whose convictions of duty caused him to oppose it upon the issues which caused the war. But the war and its issues are with the past. Let their memories serve only to stimulate us to wise, right and honorable action. The government under which we live is entitled to our earnest and unfaltering support. Our prosperity and happiness and that of our children depend in a great measure upon the wise, prudent and just administration of our government. It is a government of the people, every citizen having a voice in its management, and to the extent of his power bound to see that it is wisely, economically and justly administered. If we suffer the evils of unwise or corrupt administration the remedy is found in an appeal to reason and the ballot box. If an unjust law exists obey it until it can be repealed or modified. If a crime has been committed see that the law takes its course and that the offender is dealt with according to law and not otherwise. In [illegible] the supremacy of the law. [illegible] alike the country of the Confederate and the Federal, the Northern and the Southern citizen. We are alike interested in whatever may contribute to the peace, prosperity and glory of the country. [illegible] the reputation of the Confederate soldier [illegible] cavalry dash and endurance [illegible] character [illegible] eyes of the civilized world [illegible]. We are all Americans, and feel a pride in the enviable reputation that Americans have won. If we would have our country [illegible] prosperous and happy we should [illegible] sectional [illegible] of fraternity

A TERRIBLE EXPLORER

[From the N Y Times]

Mr Stanley's second letter is even more interesting than his first. It describes the cruise made by him in the Lady Alice along at least three quarters of the whole coast line of the Victoria Lake and includes a map of the lake which approaches in completeness that which Cameron has made of Tanganyika. The thoroughness with which he is doing his work will leave nothing to be gleaned by any future explorer.

So far Stanley seems to be in excellent spirits. The time will come, however, when he will find that he cannot interfere with the work of theoretical geographers without arousing their just indignation. The theorists had decided that Speke's lake should be cut up into a cluster of smaller lakes and had made some beautiful maps in accordance with that view. Stanley has deliberately refused to find these lakes and has even had the impudence to make a map of his own which fully substantiates what the obstinate Speke said he had seen. Not content with taking this unwarrantable liberty he has totally obliterated Lake Baringo. This lake was a peculiar pet of the map makers. They placed it north east of the Victoria Lake, and gave it a really beautiful coast line. Sometimes they connected it with its larger neighbor by a narrow strait and sometimes they took the upper end of the Sobat river, and inserted it into the north west corner of the lake. In fact they did everything for that lake that liberal minded map makers with plenty of blue ink and abundant skill in drawing wavy coast lines could have done. And now Stanley deliberately denies that any such lake ever existed. Has he no regard for vested property in maps? Is he wholly destitute of all reverence for the learned men who have taken so much trouble in bringing Lake Baringo to the notice of the public? If he thinks he can pursue his present course without earning the serious displeasure of all arm chair geographers he is very much mistaken

This man has, moreover, only just begun the course of exploration which he has proposed to undertake. He intends to survey the Albert Lake, lakes Bangweolo and Moero which Lacerdo and Monteiro discovered, but which the map-maker refused to have anything to do with until Dr Livingstone certified to their respectability, and also lakes Kamolondo and Lincoln—two lakes which nobody ever saw, but which Livingstone who was always extremely liberal with his lakes when he made conjectural maps, placed in eligible situations in the unexplored regions of Central Africa. The four latter lakes have been very well received by the theoretical geographers, and the Royal Geographical Society has even taken the trouble to move Lake Lincoln several hundred miles out of the position given to it by Dr Livingstone merely in order to place it in a more convenient locality and to make room for a nice large river farther west. Now there is every reason to suppose that if Stanley is not killed or does not die of fever, he will create an enormous amount of disorder with these lakes. He is quite capable of draining Lake Lincoln and Kamolondo with a single scratch of his pen, and he would not hesitate to spoil the present graceful outlines of Lake Moero. When a person who avowedly relies simply upon his own observations is set loose in a country full of theoretical lakes it is impossible to say what mischief he will not do. The only course for the map-makers to pursue will be to calmly ignore Stanley's assertions, precisely as they have always ignored the assertions of the Portuguese explorers. It was considered an intolerable piece of impudence for Papists like Lacerda, Monteiro, and Silva Porto to interfere with German, English and Scotch map publishers and if Stanley shows a like impudence he will very possibly be treated with equal disdain

But this pestilent American representative of an American newspaper will also undoubtedly meddle with the theoretical rivers of Central Africa. No man can look at any recent map of Africa without admiring the free and graceful way in which the rivers of which Schweinfurth and Livingstone obtained glimpses are made to curve hither and thither and are finally brought triumphantly into Lake Isad, the Albert Lake, or the Atlantic. Then, too, there are the upper courses of the Ogobai and the Congo which have afforded the opportunity for some of the nicest and most imaginative map drawing which has yet been offered to the public. Is it tolerable that a prosaic explorer should interfere with the labors of men of culture and imagination by destroying their favorite rivers, or by twisting them in such a way that their own authors could not recognize them? This however is what Stanley will do without the slightest hesitation if he is not willing to see what the map makers have created. Argument is lost upon such a man. Like Bruce, and Caillie and Speke he will maintain that rivers and lakes exist where he found them. No matter how much trouble geographers may have taken to tell him just what to find and where to find it he will pursue his own way refusing to find anything of the sort. If such men are to be permitted to roam over Africa with pen and ink and paper at their command the map makers might as well abandon the field to them at once

PRESIDENT GRANT'S FARM

AUCTION SALE OF HIS STOCK AT THE DENT HOMESTEAD

[From the St Louis Republican]

The great auction sale of Gen Grant's blooded stock, crops and farming implements took place lately at the General's farm on the Gravois road, under the superintendence of Judge John F Long. There was a pretty large attendance at the sale from this city, Carondelet, Kirkwood and the adjacent country. Among those present were Col Pratt of Barnum's hotel, John T Ferguson, Mr Benoist, Col Easton, J W Fox, H W Hellingwell, Henry Hellenstein, Col H C Wright, Jefferson Sappington, John Sutton, Dr Steinhour, Maj Patrick Henry, T Blow, jr, Little Thomas and hundreds of others. Judge Long was under instructions from Gen Grant to reserve from sale two colts, and in addition the General claimed the right of one bid on one horse, one mare and one colt, the balance of the stock to be sold without reservation

The terms of sale were announced to be cash down for all sums under $100. For sums over $100 and under $500 a credit of ninety days, and on all sums over $500 an extension of six months credit, with interest at 6 per cent

As a general thing the blooded stock sold low, but the mules and work horses brought a fair price. A dozen sucking colts ranged in price from $40 to $80. The following implements sold pretty well for second hand articles

The highest priced horse, Claymore, a Hambletonian, was bid off for Gen Grant at $2,500. A mare and colt, the colt by Ethan Allen, was also bid off to the same for $1,000. The next highest price paid was paid for a pair of four year old mares bought by Jefferson Sappington for $680. They were a beautiful pair, stepping light, one a chestnut sorrel, the other a dark sorrel. The Hambletonian stallion only brought $800 and was bought by Mr J W [illegible]. Mr [illegible] on being asked what he was going to do with the [illegible] remarked [illegible] ularly that he was going to run the [illegible] road with it

A pair of mules were bought by ex Alderman [illegible] for $180; they cost $180 a year or two ago. The mules ranged from $80 [illegible] Mr Harkness bought a couple and Col Wright bought several mares; they went at fair prices. Only one cow, an Alderney, and a half [illegible] sold, bringing $55, and were bought by Mr Hellenstein

This was all the [illegible] stock put up. The hay [illegible] $10 per ton, it being somewhat damaged [illegible] the [illegible] from $8 to $10 per ton

About sixty acres of ungathered corn was sold in the field at $7 per acre. The oats, straw, [illegible] hay, potatoes [illegible] blankets etc. were not sold, the farther sale being postponed till after the fair

This farm, containing 750 acres, 450 of which are under cultivation, will be offered for rent until the first of November; the rent asked being $2,500 a year with the privilege of one or two years. If not rented by the time stated then it will be leased to various parties in separate parcels as can be done to the best advantage. As previously managed the farm has been a heavy expense to the owner

A TERRIBLE CASUALTY

A REMARKABLE SMASH UP AT THE CENTRAL DEPOT ROCHESTER—TWO MEN CRUSHED TO ATOMS—THE DEPOT IN RUINS—PAINFUL PARTICULARS

[From the Rochester Democrat.]

About half past 3 o'clock this morning an eastward bound freight train jumped the track at the switch near Flint's saw factory, on the corner of State street. From that point it ran on the ties and planks by Waverly House and Congress Hall, and plunged through the pier at the west end of the depot. Demolishing that structure it ran diagonally across the depot and went headlong into the gentlemen's sitting room. It gouged out a hole in the wall about six feet in width and twelve in hight, completely tearing the engine to pieces. The ruins of the locomotive were thrown by the force of the concussion about 20 feet further down the side of the wall and the tender was torn to atoms. The freight cars coming west were piled in an indiscriminate heap at this spot and a "Red line" car plunged into the hole in the wall. There was a number of men standing in front of the hotels and around the depot, and these describe the scene at the time of the crash as something fearful. The air was filled with splinters of the cars, bricks and wood from the torn depot, pieces of iron from the locomotive and coal from the tender. A crowd hastily collected, among whom were Officers Crouch, Burns, St Helens and Henry and a reporter of the Democrat and Chronicle. After the first excitement had died away a search was instituted after the men who had officered the train. To the horror of all the glimmer of the lantern showed just where the end of the freight car was jammed into the depot wall, the body crushed to jelly beneath the truck which pinned the unfortunate victim to the timbers of the flooring. By the light which was turned on him it was seen that the body was that of Wm J Vianco, one of the trustiest engineers of the road. His head, silvered with age and grown bald in the service of the road, was visible just beside the cruel iron beam which had crushed out his life. An arm was divested, broken and distorted, lay by his head as if it were pillowed upon it. The main portion of the body was crushed to a jelly

The body of the fireman was looked after, but no one could find it. It was finally decided that he must be buried under the tender and the ruins of the five freight cars which were piled in an undistinguishable pile of boards, iron, boxes, barrels, quintals of fish, etc, with which they were filled. The heap or mass into which these cars and their contents were thrown it is impossible to describe.

Work was immediately begun to extricate the bodies, but at this writing—4:15 A. M.—the task was not successful. Hand jacks were procured and a gang of men, assisted by the officers above mentioned, endeavored to raise up the car in order to extricate the body of poor Vianco. The jacks were not strong enough though, and besides, so tightly was the edge of the car wedged into the wall that it could not be raised up, but will have to be pulled back with the rest of the train before it will be possible to get the body of the brave man from its terrible position. The body of the fireman, whose name is Northrup, is buried underneath a mass twenty feet high, and it cannot be extricated until fully twelve cars are lifted up and drawn back. The train telescoped as far out as Flint's saw factory and at the State street crossing, where the switch was jumped, there are a number of loaded cars run into each other, and look like a pile of old boards. The track is torn and twisted from State street to the scene of the disaster in the depot. There the entire centre of the depot is filled with debris, formed of all sorts of smashed articles; coal and iron are thrown all over the building, mixed with brick, broken car wheels, the railings of the locomotive, the bulk heads and the brake rods of the cars. The front part of the locomotive, after leaving the head light, bulkhead and cow catcher in the wall gap, plunged ahead and smashed the rear end of the old road train which had been made up to leave at 5 o'clock. The platform and end of the cars were smashed into flinters

The train was announced at Buffalo Hill at its usual time, and was ordered to come in. It must have been broken in two before it reached the hill, as the caboose containing the conductor and brakemen cannot be found. The engineer did not know probably that such was the case, or he would not have come. He ran down the grade at a very high rate of speed and when he struck the turn at State street went over the rails on a bound. It is thought the switch must have been misplaced, but the track is so torn it is impossible to tell.

The name of the conductor is Billy Sullivan and he is probably uninjured, as beyond doubt he was safe in the caboose on the other side of Buffalo Hill. The brave engineer blew his whistle as he left the track, but stuck to his post, reversed his engine and went with it to his terrible fate. In the twinkle of an eye his life was crushed out and his body left in an almost unrecognizable state. His home was on Saratoga avenue, near the house of Alderman Kelly

The depot is at this writing filled with a crowd of people and the utmost excitement prevails. No smash up has occurred in this city in years which has occasioned so much trouble to the company and citizens and so much sorrow on account of the death of brave men

BROWN, THE MIND READER

READING THE MAN'S THOUGHTS FOUR BLOCKS AWAY

[From the Inter Ocean]

The proposition was then made to Mr Brown that the reporter should proceed to the office of the Western Union Telegraph Company, where a wire connects with the Tremont House, and there take hold of one end while the mind reader held the other end at the Tremont. To this Mr Brown agreed, at the same time expressing considerable hesitation. A brief conversation followed which was in substance as follows

Reporter—Do I understand you that I must fix my mind upon a particular object, or merely think intently, say upon a phrase or an idea?

Brown—You can think of something, no matter what, but concentrate your mind upon it closely

R—And you will read my thoughts?

B—I think I will tell you what you thought about. Some people have not the faculty of fixing their minds closely, especially in presence of audiences, and I have sometimes failed in giving tests because the person's mind was not concentrated

R—Well, I will try and fix my thoughts upon some definite object, say my mother-in-law or a house on fire. Would that do?

B—Think of anything you like, only keep your mind upon the subject. Shut your eyes and think as hard as you can

The arrangement was then made that the reporter should go to the office of the Western Union on La Salle street while Brown was to remain in the Tremont rotunda. When the words "all ready" was given through the wire the battery was to be disconnected until the two persons, the investigator and the investigated, were each to take hold

The conditions were complied with. The reporter, in company with Mr Hook, went to the Western Union office, and after some delay obtained permission to try the experiment. Mr J W Jones, the assistant manager, kindly volunteered to assist. The requisite connection was made and the committee of two prepared for action. The reporter began to think. What would he think of—his next meal, his last love, or his new suit of clothes? Mechanically he felt in his pocket for a pencil to write down something, and fixed his mind upon that. He found a gold pencil and penholder and taking a piece of paper wrote down the words "How is this for high?" He then enfolded the holder in the paper and placed it in a drawer in one end of the operator's desks. In accordance with instructions the word was given, the battery was then disconnected, and the investigator went behind the switch board and held the naked wire between his finger and thumb for a minute and a half. During that time he thought with an intensity he had never done before, of that gold pencil, but kept it vividly before his mind's eye

In a few moments Mr Jones received a message from the other end of the wire, and it was as follows

"Gold pen in drawer wrapped up in paper; something written on paper, the words are 'How is this for high?'"

Mr Jones opened his eyes pretty wide when he found it corresponded with the facts, and Mr Hook, who had been treating the whole thing as a kind of pleasantry, was, to use a slang phrase, completely "flabbergasted". Mr Jones offered to certify to the correctness of the message sent, which was not necessary, since he can be interviewed by any one who feels interested in the matter

On reaching the Tremont House the committee found a little group of people, who had watched the operation at that end of the wire, in a state of excitement, while Brown himself seemed considerably exhausted and nervous. It appears that his eyes were bandaged during the time he held the wire and after a minute corresponding with the time the other persons had held the other end, he wrote on a piece of paper the words given above

It is not the purpose of this article to theorize on these strange doings, but merely to state the facts. Let others draw their own conclusions. If Mr Brown succeeded in doing this marvel by means of trickery, it is difficult to see wherein the trick consisted. The investigator was thoroughly skeptical on the subject and was simply prepared for a fiasco, followed by the usual explanation that "the conditions were not favorable." He was compelled to acknowledge himself completely dumbfounded, and so were all the witnesses of the experiment

THE TERRITORIES

The Episcopal church in Pendleton will be consecrated this fall, or as soon as the debts owing by it are cancelled

The horse Osceola made some good time in a three in five race at LaGrande last week. The heats were made in 1:46, 1:46½ and 1:50, respectively

The Pendleton flouring mill is complete, or rather is so far completed that hundreds of families have been supplied with flour of home manufacture

Wheat on the line of the Northern Pacific in Dakota commands $1 to $1 05 per bushel; 80 cents is the ruling price on the St Paul and Pacific, and 85 cents in Southern Dakota

The president of the re-organized Northern Pacific announces the following appointments: Minnesota and Dakota division, Charles W Mead, of St Paul, general manager; R M Newport, of Brainerd, assistant treasurer; Jas B Power, of Brainerd, agent land department. For the Pacific division J W Sprague general superintendent and assistant land commissioner

The Walla Walla Statesman says: "During the progress of the fire on Monday night, an incident of thrilling interest occurred. A young lady, the daughter of Mr Hull, was in the second story of the building, and unable to retreat by way of the stairs. She appeared on the balcony and threw herself off. Fortunately the brave young lady was caught in the arms of a stalwart man, and thus escaped injury. Miss Hull may fairly be regarded as the heroine of the fire."

O H Purdy, secretary of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Idaho Territory, has received a communication from the secretary of Keystone Lodge No 639 A F & A M, Chicago, stating that Edmond Ronayne, a past master of the latter lodge, is traveling through the country delivering lectures and working in public on three symbolic degrees of Masonry. The miscreant was expelled from all the rights and privileges of the order for unmasonic conduct, and takes this execrable method to get even."

On the Umatilla reservation there is an Indian by the name of [illegible] Tusken and he is very wealthy, owning horses and cattle valued at about $15,000 besides other personal property. About four weeks ago he went into the mountains on a hunt, leaving in his log cabin $900 in $20 pieces, $40 in small gold and ten blankets valued at $80, besides other Indian fixings. On his return everything was gone. No trace of the robbers has been found, but three men who were living near him, and who suddenly decamped, were suspected of having stolen the property

The census of Indians on the Umatilla reservation is as follows: Males 21 years and upwards 64; males under 21 and over 10, 60; males under 10 years 80; females 18 years and upwards 178; females under 18 and over 10 years 100; females under 10 years, 78. The Indians on the reservation have 1,500 acres of land under cultivation; they produced 3,000 bushels of wheat, 2,000 bushels of oats, 60 bushels of rye, 200 bushels of corn and 400 bushels of potatoes. They have on their reservation 150 head of sheep, 8,000 head of horses, 25 hogs, 2,000 head of cattle and 17 mules

The Bismarck Tribune says: Last spring a hardy lot of pioneers from Bozeman, Montana established themselves at the mouth of the Big Horn and built a stockade (since known as Fort Pease) right in the heart of the Indian country. They were surrounded by the Indians, and several of their number killed, but they "held the fort" and to the present time have succeeded in standing off the Indians in their numerous attacks, and in the meantime the Bozeman Courier reports that the settlers have been constantly increasing in number, and now feel that they are as secure as the settlers in any portion of Montana, and are so far along in the establishment of the coming city of Big Horn that a newspaper is being talked of and Major Pease has actually made arrangements for a printing office. Big Horn will be the first city of importance on the North Pacific west of Bismarck

The Mountain Sentinel says: "The people of Union county have raised a purse of $1,000, in gold coin, which they are ready to hang at any time between now and November 20th, to be run for by any three of the following horses: Osceola, Foster, Twenty One, Emma McCormick, and free to all other horses; race to be 3 best in 5, mile heats, or further if a majority of the parties entering so agree; race to be run to rules of the National Turf Association or Bay District Fair Ground Association; entrance 10 per cent. The owners of Foster and Osceola have been sparring at each other for some time and are both anxious to see their horses run against something that can amuse them. Twenty One is a horse unknown to the owner of Osceola, and was brought here by the same parties who last year brought Osceola to Oregon for the purpose of beating him. Emma McCormick has been chief of Idaho ever since she was brought from the East

Charles Francis Adams has been writing another letter. In reply to a letter urging him to become an independent candidate for Governor of Massachusetts as a means of making him a prominent candidate for President, he wrote:

If I were to enter upon any course, direct or indirect, to operate upon my fellow-citizens in the matter of an election to the Presidency, the result to me would be nothing but mortification and repentance. If they really want me they know where to find me. If they do not, nothing that I could do would avail to change them. You say that things are managed in such a way as to suppress the true sense of the people. I say this can never be when the people really have an opinion. It is only when they are indifferent or much divided that management comes in to turn the scale. I confess to you that I am no hand to play at this game, and if I were to attempt it, my friends would only be sorry for my mistake

THE ELECTION AT ASTORIA

DEMOCRATS CARRY ASTORIA—REPUBLICANS INACTIVE—HEAVY VOTE FOR WHITNEY AND DIMICK—CLATSOP COUNTY IS REPUBLICAN

ASTORIA, Oct 25, 1875

To the Editor of the Oregonian

The election of a Congressman has been the absorbing business of the day, and so far as our city's choice is concerned, the Democrats have won by a majority of eighteen votes. Votes polled, 316, of which Lane received 169, and Warren 147. This is the first time in 12 years that the Democrats have polled a majority in this town, and it is safe to say that had the Republicans made on this occasion the same efforts to poll the strength of their party as had the Democrats, instead of Lane being ahead Warren would have beat him by at least a score. Democrats, however, appear to be much more alive to and interested in politics and the success of their party than are Republicans, and a lesson of this kind is necessary at times to arouse the Republicans to a sense of danger as well as of duty. In one respect Astoria has set an example which is worthy of emulation by other localities—not a single solitary vote was cast for either Whitney or Dimick. If the State generally has as completely ignored the claims of those gentlemen (neither of whom have the shadow of a chance to be elected) we should be in a position to estimate the actual strength of the Republican and Democratic parties in our State. Although Astoria has gone Democratic it is generally conceded here that the official returns will show that Clatsop county will foot up a Republican majority

The following is a report of the population and products of Umatilla county as compiled by the assessor: Legal voters, 1,258; males 21 years and upward 1,307; males under 21 and over 10 503; males under 10 years, 721; females 18 years and upward 870; females under 18 and over 10 [illegible]; females under 10 [illegible]; acres under cultivation 114,745; bushels of wheat raised 137,[illegible], oats 73,560, barley 16,[illegible], rye 2,801, tons of hay 11,969, pounds of wool 22,500, bushels of corn 8,[illegible], number of sheep 30,241, horses 7,449, hogs [illegible], cattle 28,[illegible], pounds of [illegible] bushels of potatoes 21,630, apples 13,[illegible] feet of lumber manufactured 1,309,000, number of mules 166, pounds of cheese 3,80[illegible] [illegible] 21

[illegible] The dialogue was chatting a few weeks ago on the piazza of the United States Hotel at Saratoga with a bright German gentleman retired from business, who related the following little anecdote:

Matters are progressing at Galice creek. Some Chinese have secured the contract of digging two miles of the ditch the English company propose to run into their diggings, and have between 100 and 200 of their countrymen employed. Mr Hanna was an old citizen and highly respected by a large circle of friends and acquaintances. His age was 77 years

Among the humors of the Ohio campaign we find the following

While Gov Hendricks was speaking in Portsmouth, Ohio, he was much disturbed by the wrangling and quarrels of drunken men among his hearers, and at last, with patience utterly exhausted, he cried: "Gentlemen, you had better reserve yourselves for the great fight on Tuesday, and to-day listen to the promulgation of your principles!" "That's so, Governor," exclaimed a maudlin fellow, "but you have a sight more promulgation than principles. Let the fight go on!"

Charles Aberley, an old citizen of La Grande, has been for several months exhibiting signs of insanity. For a long time his friends hoped to note some improvement in his mental condition, but he has gradually grown worse and on last Tuesday he was taken before the court and examined by competent physicians and pronounced insane

THE ELECTION.

The telegraph lines are down in every direction and consequently we are unable to present our readers with a full [illegible] election news. During the forenoon of yesterday before the lines were prostrated it was rumored on the streets that private dispatches had been received which warranted the Democrats in asserting that Lane's majority in the State would reach 1,[illegible]00 but the report was without foundation. Nothing has been received in addition to what we publish. It is hardly likely Lane's majority will exceed 1,200 and it may fall considerably below that figure.

THE INDIAN BUREAU.

The appointment of Zachariah Chandler to be Secretary of the Interior would seem to corroborate the report put in circulation some time since that the President intended to recommend the transfer of the Indian Bureau to the War Department. Mr Chandler while in the Senate was known as a friend of that policy having on several occasions advocated it in the Senate chamber. We are aware that a large proportion of the people believe such a change would be for the better. Many seem to think that the plan of giving the Indians into the keeping of the army would solve the Indian problem at once and in a manner most to the advantage of both whites and Indians. Upon what premises this conclusion rests has never been explained very fully but that fact does not seriously obstruct the development and extension of the idea.

As we have said on two or three occasions heretofore, we cannot but think the plan a bad one. Viewed from the standpoint of economy alone it is exceedingly questionable whether a dollar would be saved to the Government. The incidental expenses of the Indian establishment in the army with the inevitable decrease of production on the reservations, would amount to more than the compensations of the civil employes—agents &c. who would be dispensed with in the change. The experiment was once tried and abandoned. Doubtless it could be much better systematized now than it was when the army had it in charge before but there has been corresponding improvement in the civil administration of Indian affairs since its inauguration, and, relatively considered, the military plan would be no better now than formerly.

Besides, while it is right and proper to consult the matter of economy in Indian affairs, that is not the first or principal thing to be thought of. The Indians are human beings and their natural rights and general welfare as such are or should be the first objects of any system of dealing with them. It must be admitted they are a weak and rapidly decaying race, but that is a reason, not for oppressing them or disregarding their interests, but for taking the more watchful care that they are not wronged. Irrespective of the question of their capability of being developed and civilized into a proper condition to become citizens, a point upon which there is a difference of opinion among intelligent persons the obligations of the white race to them are the obligations of the strong toward the weak whom they have in their midst. The extinction of the Indian race may be, as some think it is, inevitable but the instincts of humanity revolt at the proposition to adopt a policy calculated only to hasten the process and render the race more miserable as the end approaches. It is already demonstrated wherever the experiment has been tried, that under proper civilizing agencies the Indians can be placed far above the savage condition in which they live in their original nomadic state. This is shown not only in the case of the Cherokees, Chickasaws, Choctaws and other tribes inhabiting the Indian Territory, but upon the reservations along the western border of the old States, and here in Oregon and Washington Territory. Who will say the Indians at Simcoe and Warm Springs, and at Grand Ronde, have not been vastly improved by the present manner of dealing with them? If there is any person who will make the assertion it is not worth while to reason with such a one. And even the Snake Indians at the Malheur reservation though only a short time since brought under the restraints of the present system, show themselves capable of considerable advancement.

It is not to be denied that the present system is far from perfect. There is room for improvement in many respects, but the endeavor should be in the direction of improving upon the present plan not of abandoning it for one in its very nature disqualified to carry on the work begun or even to keep it up to the point already attained. With all its imperfections the Indian service is now immeasurably better than ever it was before, unless we except the time only a year or two past when the agencies were, for a short period placed out of reach of the politicians. Compared with other branches of the public service the Indian bureau can not be said to exhibit the greatest amount of corruption or the greatest want of efficiency. We are not ignorant that in expressing these views we are running at variance with the majority of the people of this coast, numbers alone being [illegible] but we are persuaded the [illegible] number of those who have given [illegible] subject mature reflection agree with [illegible] [illegible] however [illegible] that [illegible] of the [illegible] we are [illegible] on [illegible] that the plan of turning the Indians over to the custody of the army would operate to the injury of the Indians and [illegible] the advantage of the whites.

MISSTATEMENTS CORRECTED.

The Chicago Times having published a report that Secretary Bristow's family on their return from Europe recently brought with them a large amount of dutiable goods which were admitted without [illegible] of the duties it was shown [illegible] that the only goods of any kind [illegible] in their trunks all of which [illegible] and examined by the [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] other person landing from abroad. Then the Times turned to the charge with this variation of the story:

While the steamer was at anchor in New York harbor, waiting for the health officer the government cutter approached and took off 18 trunks belonging to Mrs Bristow and family and the said trunks made no figure among the group that lined the docks when the passengers went ashore.

Which brings General George H Sharp, Surveyor of the Customs, to his feet with a settler as follows:

The following are the facts. While the steamer was [illegible] for waiting for the health officer the government cutter approached and placed on board of her the deputy surveyor and inspectors assigned to the vessel and the cutter left without taking from the steamer any person or any article of baggage and no baggage left the steamer by any other vessel. Mrs Bristow and family and all their baggage remained upon the steamer until she was docked at Jersey City when they landed and the baggage went ashore with that of all the other passengers. It consisted of four trunks and four small packages for state-room use. Mrs Bristow made a declaration under oath of the contents of her baggage stating with particularity such of her personal attire as was new and upon which the duties were paid. The baggage was examined and treated in all respects like that of other passengers and having gone ashore with all the baggage that came from the Scythia, was after such examination sent to Mrs Bristow's hotel by a public express.

The silver coin now coined is not of the same weight as that coined heretofore. The standard fineness of the coin is made of 900 parts of pure silver and 100 parts of pure copper alloy. The law of 1873 has somewhat increased the weight of the subsidiary coin so that the coins at present issued are a trifle heavier than the coin issued prior to the 1st of April 1873 and are made to correspond in weight with the French coin. At present the subsidiary coins now issued are the half dollar, quarter dollar, twenty cent piece and dime. The half dollar weighs 19[illegible] grains. This piece formerly weighed 192 grains. The quarter dollar now weighs 96.45 grains. It formerly weighed 96 grains. The new twenty cent piece weighs 77.16 grains and the dime weighs 38.58 grains, the latter formerly weighed 38.04 grains. These are the only silver coins authorized excepting the trade-dollar which is a commercial piece and weighs 420 grains. Since the 1st of last January, there has been issued from the mint in Philadelphia between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 in subsidiary silver coin. This coin has been transferred to the assistant treasurer at Boston where it will remain until such time as the secretary of the treasury sees fit to commence the work of redemption. It is stated by the Chief Coiner Col Snowden that if the mint was worked to its fullest capacity it would turn out $50,000 in small silver per diem. During the last month the mints at San Francisco and Carson coined over 1,000,000 pieces of the twenty cent coins.

John Kelly has succeeded Boss Tweed as the dictator of the Tammany Democracy of New York. The Mayor appears to be completely under his control and the official patronage of the city is distributed by him as if he were the owner of the corporation. Gov Tilden has no affiliation with the Tammany crowd and a large section of the Democracy of the city are in a coalition with the Republicans against Tammany. Mr Kelly has not quite so easy going a thing as Tweed had in his dictatorship because of the general disaffection in the ranks of the formerly faithful but he is certainly showing himself a very capable leader of the Tammany grade of politicians. If the combinations against the ring fail New York is destined soon to have a repetition of the plundering jobs that were carried through by Tweed and his confederates and instruments.

Gov Hendricks of Indiana, is reported to have said on hearing of the result of the Ohio election: I'm not surprised. I told you we should be defeated. On a different platform we should have succeeded. Had the Democrats declared themselves for specie payments to be accomplished gradually and without contracting the currency at present outstanding they would have rolled up a larger majority than they did in 1874.

Senator Bayard of Delaware made a speech the other day at Richmond Virginia in which he declared himself a hard money man and said if the American people were true to themselves they would never rest till they had restored the standard of value so that we might have a substantial basis for our prosperity. The Dispatch says these sentiments did not meet with the most cordial sympathy from the audience.

Gen Bartlett declines to be the candidate of the Massachusetts Democracy for Lieutenant Governor and his action it is said has weakened the chances of the party in that State so much that the election of Rice for Governor over Gov Gaston is deemed certain. John Quincy Adams has been substituted for Gen Bartlett by the State Central Committee but his name does not add strength to the ticket.

The suburbs of New York City have got the ague. In every direction, says the Times this malady prevails this year in the suburbs and adjacent villages. It is not confined to the low lands and marshes but is equally prevalent in places hitherto unvisited by it. The cause assigned is defective drainage and consequent malaria.

Lafayette Lane who gave our office a call last evening does not like campaigning in some parts of the State as well as he thought he would. He says the canopy of Heaven is about the thinnest covering that any white man ever had to sleep under of an October night.

The Republican majority in Ohio is larger than the last revised reports made it. It is set down at 4,700 on the vote for Governor and about 8,000 for Lieutenant Governor.

The anti Tammany Democrats of New York do not place an entire ticket in the field. They support the Republican nominees for District Attorney and Recorder.

Col A H Gildersleeve of rifle shooting fame is the nominee of the Republicans and anti Tammany Democrats of New York for judge of Duchess county.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN. In an experience of three years with the Averill Chemical Paint more than one half the jobs have chalked [illegible] or cracked off notwithstanding the Paint was warranted [illegible] and out of sixteen failures the "California Chemical Paint Company" have refused to furnish Paint to repaint but six. For the sixteen I refer to the following houses that have cracked, peeled and chalked all in this place: James Corey, R C Mury M D, Thomas Darrough, F J Bryant, F H Farmer, Frank Oldham, J B Trickey, G Woodward, Thomas Rea, P Ball, D Whitney, William Wilson, J M [illegible], [illegible] [illegible] J A Baxter, Music Hall, Catholic Church and I might mention many more.

Seeing in various papers that the California Chemical Paint Company continue to deceive people by saying that the Averill paint will neither peel crack nor chalk off I deem it my duty to say that my house painted with the above named paint in the fall of 1873 failed in less than eighteen months after being painted by peeling cracking and chalking off in the worst manner imaginable. I also observe that the company have my name in their printed matter as recommending it. This was done without my knowledge or consent.

WEDNESDAY MORNING OCT 27 1875

CITY.

A BEAR HUNT — Mr John Crouch the repairer of the Western Union Telegraph Co's [illegible] returned on Monday evening from an inspection tour. He proceeded as far south as Shasta, making an examination of the lines. On his return Mr Crouch [illegible] Cow creek about 40 miles beyond Roseburg and had a big bear hunt. Armed with Heavy carbines our friend Crouch accompanied by two old and experienced hunters sallied forth on a pretty excursion against the bruins and bruinesses in that section of the country. After wandering about through the woods [illegible] hills adjacent to Cow creek for some time the party suddenly came in full view of a large [illegible] lying under a tree and reflectively chewing [illegible]. In an instant [illegible] Crouch had his trusty weapon to his shoulder and sent a ball crashing through the brains of the animal which stretched it lifeless in its [illegible]. It was the first deer he ever [illegible] and of course he [illegible] over his prowess as a hunter. Soon after skinning the deer, the party scared up a drove of bear that were eating acorns. A running fight was kept up for some time resulting in the hunters slaying one large bear two [illegible] cubs and wounding two others [illegible] were secured but the wounded animals made their escape. One that was shot [illegible] the vitals was hotly pursued by the hunters but it took to an adjacent thicket of underbrush and the party regarding it as [illegible] to follow abandoned the track. The hunters returned late in the evening with the spoils of the chase and although greatly fatigued considered themselves amply repaid for the toil and danger. Our hero has preserved and brought back with him a trophy of the hunt—one of the bear's claws which he will henceforth dangle from his watch chain as a perpetual souvenir of the hair breadth escapes incident to that memorable bear hunt.

DIED FROM SMALLPOX — Nearly two weeks ago mention was made in these columns of a young man named Fields who had been stricken down at Forest Grove with the small pox. It proved to be a severe case of confluent smallpox and we learned yesterday that the patient died a few days since from the disease. Fields it seems slept with James [illegible] the person who contracted the disease at [illegible] some weeks ago and came to Forest Grove where the contagion developed itself contrary to the advice and expectations of friends. Fields continued to occupy the same bed with James for several nights after the latter was sick and could not be induced to change his sleeping quarters until pustules appeared all over the body of his fellow. When taken down with the scourge Fields persisted in disregarding the most necessary precautions neglected to observe personal cleanliness and in every manner manifested a spirit of recklessness as to the consequences. The result of this negligence, together with the malignant type of the disease swept him off after a brief illness.

VERDICT OF GUILTY —The time of the State circuit court was consumed yesterday forenoon in hearing the case of George Connor one of the four boys who entered a store on First street some weeks ago and purloined from the drawer about $70 in coin. Notwithstanding the counsel for defense labored earnestly to prove that the confession of guilt made by the lad was induced mainly through threats offered on the part of the police officers, and was really extorted from him yet the jury failed to regard it in that light. They retired a few minutes before 10 o'clock for deliberation and soon after came in with a verdict of guilty coupled with a recommendation of mercy in behalf of the youthful offender. Time for passing sentence has not yet been set by the court. To-day has been set as the time for the trial of the other boys, Reynard, Carroll and Dougherty.

LINES GROUNDED – Generally the first heavy fall rains which descend play sad havoc with the telegraph lines, and the storm of the past few days has produced a disastrous effect upon the wires. Yesterday morning at an early hour the line south became so heavy and grounded that messages could not be received from or transmitted to San Francisco. In the afternoon the line went down beyond Junction. The wires of both the O & C R R Co and the W U T Co. were prostrated across the railroad track, and had to be cut before the trains could pass. Late last evening the lines southward were in such a bad condition that the operators here gave up in despair. Men will be out along the line bright and early this morning, and it is to be hoped that the wires will respond to the "keys" during the forenoon. Northward the line was also grounded.

AT THE HOSPITAL.—Mr Cradlebaugh a civil engineer and draughtsman for several years in the employ of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, and latterly engaged at government work in Gen Michler's office was attacked a few weeks ago while at Salem with hemorrhage of the lungs. He remained several days at the Chemeketa Hotel but being very low it was deemed best to remove him to Portland for treatment. Mr Cradlebaugh on reaching the city, was conveyed to St Vincent's Hospital, of which institution he is at present an inmate. For a time he was very low and but limited hopes entertained of his recovery. We are gratified to state that he is improving and in a fair way of convalescence.

HEARING POSTPONED—Ling Lang the Celestial who made a murderous attack on a countryman last Saturday with a knife, and inflicted several severe and probably fatal stabs is still confined in the city jail. There has been no preliminary hearing of the case yet which delay is owing to the absence of the Police Judge, W H Adams. As Mr Adams is a passenger on board the Ajax, and this steamer is expected to arrive here to-day the preliminary examination will probably take place to-morrow morning. No traces have been discovered of the two Chinamen who were accomplices of Ling Lang in his attempt to take life.

S S CONCERT AT ASTORIA. Last Sunday evening the Congregational Church at Astoria was filled to its utmost capacity on the occasion of a Sabbath school concert given by the children under the direction of Hon J Q A Bowlby leader of the choir. Interesting addresses were made by the pastor Rev [illegible] Messrs. Sparrow and Yates and last though not least Hon J F Caples a veteran Sunday school worker who was listened to with marked attention. The [illegible] evinced their appreciation of the efforts of the children and their teachers by a very liberal contribution to the Sunday school fund.

RAN AGROUND – On Sunday afternoon the tug Brenham left this port and started down the river. While on the way to Astoria the tug got a little out of the channel in the dark part of the night and ran hard aground. When the Dixie Thompson came up the river on Monday the tug was piled up on the sand unable to extricate herself. Not having any time to spare the steamer continued on and did not render any assistance. However the steamer Willamette Chief came along soon after and hitching on drew the tug out into deep water. The Brenham reached Astoria early yesterday morning.

VISITED BY TRAMPS. On Monday a house which is situated near Milwaukie was visited by some tramps and burglarized. The thieves on finding the occupants absent effected an entrance and ransacked the building from basement to attic. On returning late in the evening the family was surprised to find the doors open and everything [illegible] premises turned topsy turvy. [illegible] any money [illegible] a few articles [illegible] walked away.

ON TRIAL—In the State circuit court yesterday afternoon the case of the State vs Ah Lee was called up for trial. This celestial is indicted for assaulting one of his countrymen several weeks ago with a dangerous weapon to wit a knife. The jury was empaneled and the testimony submitted. The argument of the counsel will be heard this morning.

NEW HEARTH — For some time a force of mechanics have been engaged in putting down a new hearth in the blast furnace of the Oswego Iron Works. Other necessary additions and repairs are also being made to the works. Within a few weeks, it is reported, everything will be in readiness for resumption of operations.

ANKLE CUT. While a man whose name we are unable to learn was employed in cutting wood some distance below the city yesterday morning the axe suddenly glanced and struck the chopper on the left ankle inflicting a severe gash. Medical aid was summoned from the city and the wounded limb dressed.

Y M C A. The regular [illegible] meeting under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association will be held this evening in their rooms corner of First and Alder streets commencing at [illegible] o'clock. All are welcome.

BRIEF NOTES.

Flooded streets and muddy crossings.

A little current is noticeable in the river.

A heavy and steady rain descended yesterday.

The work of widening North First street still goes on.

Great quantities of feathered game are now in the market.

Hydrant water again assumes a rich amber hue. Much native soil in it.

Foster Upshur of the O S N Co's steamers won a fine picture by shaking 44 at a raffle on Monday evening.

The hull of Capt Buchanan's new steamer has been enclosed, and workmen are putting up the cabin.

Persons from the country inform us that the various roads radiating from the city are getting very muddy.

The O S N Co's line was down beyond the Dalles yesterday. Heavy rains was the cause of the prostration.

Captain Jimmy Troup's little clipper ship Fleetwood now lies high and dry alongside of the Independence boat house.

Wanted a new section of terra cotta to take the place of an old and broken one belonging to the Stark street sewer near its mouth.

The Stark street sewer is kept busily employed in conveying to the river the surplus water which accumulates along that street.

Portland needs a reform school. The subject of the early establishment of such a useful institution should be agitated by our citizens.

A cotemporary states that the heavy rain and wind storm of the past week has played havoc with the trees in the East Portland Park.

The remark of the bard "Every tinkle on the shingle has an echo in the heart"—comes to the average Webfoot with peculiar force these damp days.

A force of men are at work overhauling the steamer Vancouver. The old water logged planks have been torn off, and new lumber will soon take the place.

A lot of jolly sons of Neptune met in a saloon down street on Monday night and indulged in a free fight. Claret flowed like water but nothing more serious.

The sociable and literary entertainment in the basement of the Taylor street M E Church last evening was largely attended notwithstanding the stormy weather. All present seemed pleased.

The Woman's Guild of St David's Parish East Portland will meet in the study of the church on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Business of importance will be transacted and it is hoped all the members will be present.

ESCAPE OF PRISONERS

Under date of the 25th our regular correspondent at Astoria sends the following.

A most singular escape occurred from our city jail on Sunday night. A man giving the name of James Gibney had an altercation with one O'Brien in the barroom of the [illegible] hotel on Saturday during which he drew a knife and made a desperate lunge with it at O'Brien. Fortunately for his intended victim Gibney overreached himself [illegible] or doubtless he would have buried his knife in the heart of O'Brien. He was arrested and committed for trial on a charge of an assault with a dangerous weapon. On Sunday evening a chum of Gibney's was arrested on a charge of threatening violence to one of the witnesses whose testimony helped to convict his friend and consigned him to jail. Our county jail being but a very frail structure it was the intention of the sheriff to forward the principal prisoner to Portland by the Dixie Thompson on Monday morning, and lodge him in safer quarters till the meeting of the district court. Shortly after 10 o'clock this morning, Constable Oliver and City Marshal Overton proceeded to the jail for the purpose of shackling the desperado and escorting him to the steamer. They found it as secure as they had left it but on unlocking the cell door they found Gibney and his friend had disappeared and the question now is where they got out. There was another prisoner in the same cell whose time expires in a day or two. He says that four men unlocked the door and came into the cell. He was lying down in his blankets and thought it was the marshal come to take his prisoner on board the boat so he did not get up to take particular notice. After leaving the cell the gentlemen took particular pains to close and lock each door carefully after them and then beat a very orderly retreat. The locks are patent cell locks made by [illegible]. There are only known to be two sets of keys, one in possession of the constable and the other kept in the sheriff's office each of which were in their proper place and how the escape was effected is a mystery to our citizens. The two [illegible] are however at present [illegible] but Jack Oliver the constable is pretty [illegible] to solve the mystery if it can be done.

AMUSEMENTS.

A [illegible] audience greeted the second appearance of the [illegible] troupe last evening at the New Market Theater. Uncle Tom's Cabin was rendered in a very creditable manner and gave satisfaction to the audience. Our Country Cousin [illegible]. This evening a splendid bill will be presented. French Spy [illegible] Mrs Zoe Gayton will assume three characters and David Garrick [illegible] Mr Jas A Herne [illegible]

[illegible] British Trade Journal [illegible] is the one country in Europe that has no commercial [illegible] the [illegible] among the perils [illegible] trade. Where all [illegible] or remains stationary she progresses. During [illegible] of the current year her [illegible] to sixty four millions sterling eight millions more than at the same period of 1874. The growth of the customs revenue was £900 000 and of the indirect taxes nearly two millions sterling. And it might be added that France is the one country in Europe that, by means of protective and even prohibitory measures has throughout the whole of the present century been providing for a perfect industrial and monetary independence. As a consequence of this her foreign commerce grows more rapidly than that of any other country of the world.

The condition of local financial matters is rarely suggestive of any extended remarks and during the present season has been as barren of subject matter for newspaper comment as the most ordinary circumstances in everyday life. This has been especially true since business matters settled back into the ordinary channels after the great San Francisco disaster. As the clouds passed away after that storm and men found themselves much less hurt than scared they soon began to recover confidence and at this early day there is less trace of the panic of last August on the Pacific coast than is still seen of that of 1873 on the other shore of the continent though the Bank of California was comparatively as largely connected with the business of the coast as was Jay Cooke & Co. with that of the East. The rapidity with which this section recovered from the shock is mainly attributable to and indicative of the wonderful resources of the country.

Oregon and California are commanding a large share of attention in the world of trade and our own [illegible] is assuming a more important place from year to year [illegible] have drawn attention to [illegible] principally on account of our wheat. The New York Bulletin, the leading commercial journal in the United States in regard to the possibilities [illegible] as a producer and exporter of this staple [illegible]

As each season passes the growing importance of Oregon as a wheat market is more and more de[illegible] particularly as regards the export trade. The acreage though smaller than that of [illegible] of California is proportionately [illegible] value as there still remain [illegible] district of the most favorable soil that has not as yet been placed under cultivation. The total for all pro[illegible] including that now under cultivation and such as is suitable for tillage, is placed at not less than 2,752,000 acres allowing one fourth of this amount for wheat 688,000 acres, with the average production at 25 per acre the total capacity for this staple alone would be 17,200,000 bushels per year. Of this amount the best estimates place the home consumption in round numbers at 1,500,000 bushels leaving an available export surplus of 15,700,000 bushels. The subdivision of its farming land gives the state a great advantage over California, and when fully cultivated will undoubtedly divert no little trade from that quarter. One trouble with which Oregon has to contend however is the inadequate transportation facilities, which necessitates giving large quantities of wheat to the swine. Indeed it is stated that the swine in this State are as regularly fattened on wheat as those of Indiana are on corn. But this drawback is soon to be properly met as there are now on foot projects for two railroads, which can be constructed at a comparatively small cost as the country abounds in the requisite timber lands. The lands are also very level and require but little grading, so that the only trouble will be to get the iron at a moderate price.

The Wheat Market.

The condition of the Liverpool and San Francisco markets as far as this cereal is concerned has changed a little since our last review and the change seems to be favorable for holders. [illegible] also taking a slight upward tone and we are reliably informed that $1 80 per cental [illegible], has been paid for [illegible] lots at this point though late San Francisco quotations would scarcely seem to justify it. But nevertheless buyers here, in some cases at least seem disposed to come nearer the figures [illegible] them than usual and 35,000 bushels changed [illegible] at Halsey to-day on a basis of $1 82½ at this port [illegible] the largest sale yet reported this week. [illegible] large buyers declare them[selves] out of the market. The receipts by rail are increasing, and there is but little or no warehouse room in our city [illegible] at a rapid rate. The several ships [illegible] from time to time as en route from San Francisco are all but two or three [illegible] for cargoes and much of their cargoes are reported as already secured [illegible] the large amount in store [illegible] the report to have a good foundation. The [illegible] for a brisk movement in wheat at [illegible] are very promising.

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamship Ajax [illegible] from San Francisco had not been telegraphed at a late hour this evening [illegible]

The ship [illegible] at Astoria has her cargo all [illegible] and will sail in a few days [illegible]

The [illegible] Walf having [illegible] will [illegible] with produce for the San Francisco market.

The ship Lanarkshire will [illegible] complete her [illegible] river [illegible]

[illegible] Astoria is discharging ballast [illegible]

[illegible] vessels are at Astoria [illegible] waiting favorable wind [illegible] to go to sea.

We the undersigned have thoroughly tested and examined the New Wheeler & Wilson Nos 6 and 7 Manufacturing Machines and find them superior to any we have ever seen for the purposes for which they are recommended. They are adapted to a great range of work and make a perfect stitch on all kinds of material. The motion being rotary they run with great ease and quietness and as every part is perfectly finished they must be very durable.

Ordinance No. 1697

AN ORDINANCE TO PROVIDE FOR THE vacation of that part of "A" street lying between N. West Park street and N. Tenth street

Whereas upon the 1st day of July 1875 a petition was filed with the Common Council of the City of Portland praying for the vacation of that part of "A" street in said city lying between the west line of N. West Park street and the east line of N. Tenth street which said petition setforth the particular circumstances of the case, gave a distinct description of the property to be vacated and the names of the persons to be particularly affected thereby and was duly signed by parties interested therein. And whereas due notice was given of the pendency of said petition and that upon the 18th day of August 1875 at the hour of 8 o'clock P M, at a regular meeting of said Common Council application would be made by said petitioners for an ordinance of said Common Council declaring said portion of said "A" street vacated which said notice was duly published in the Daily Oregonian and the Weekly Oregonian public newspapers printed and published in said city once a week for more than thirty days prior to said 18th day of August. Now upon this 6th day of October 1875 at a regular meeting of said Common Council that the consent of all persons owning property immediately adjoining said portion of said "A" street sought to be vacated had been duly obtained thereto in writing and acknowledged as required by law. And whereas it appears that said portion of said "A" street is unnecessary as a street and it would be for the best interest of all parties concerned to have said portion of said street vacated and that no injury would be done thereby to any person interested therein or to the said city or the public generally and no objection has been made or filed thereto and none has appeared at the cite.

The City of Portland does ordain as follows

That all that portion of "A" street in the city of Portland lying and situate between the west line of N. West Park street and the east line of N. Tenth street be and the same is hereby vacated.

(Carminative)

For Diarrhoea and Dysentery use Dr. Jayne's Carminative Balsam. As changes of climate or water, and indiscretions in eating often produce these complaints, travelers and others should always keep a bottle of this remedy by them. It never fails to subdue the most violent attacks, and it is equally serviceable for Cramps in the Stomach or Bowels, Griping Pains, &c

For Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum and Colic use Dr. Jayne's Carminative Balsam. It removes all soreness of the abdomen, allays the irritation and calms the action of the Stomach. It may always be relied on to give immediate relief, and besides being effectual, is a pleasant and safe remedy, easily administered to children.

For Asiatic Cholera and all Bowel Affections use promptly Dr. Jayne's Carminative Balsam. It checks the Diarrhoea, suppresses the Cramps which generally accompany attacks of Cholera,—and conquers the disease in its incipiency. It has frequently been administered in neighborhoods where the Cholera has been raging epidemically, and it has seldom failed to give immediate and permanent relief. The Carminative has maintained its reputation as a Curative for nearly forty years, is equally effective in all latitudes, and as a Standard Household Remedy, should be kept in every family

YOUNG MEN

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion will do well to avail themselves of this the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity. Dr. SPINNEY will guarantee to forfeit $500 for every case of seminal weakness or private disease of any kind or character which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would therefore say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last and are suffering some or all its ill effects remember that if you persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance when the door of hope will be closed against you when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the Doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work upon your imagination but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave. Full course of treatment $25 00. Send money by Post Office order or Express with full description of the case. Call, or address

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvellous cures that have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed the Cherry Pectoral has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects that is well founded if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR

TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY & COLOR

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment and hereditary predisposition all turn the hair gray and either of them incline it to fall off prematurely. Ayer's Hair Vigor by long and extensive use has proven that it stops the falling of the hair immediately often renews the growth and always surely restores its color when faded or gray. It stimulates the nutritive organs to healthy activity and preserves both the hair and its beauty. Thus brashy, weak or sickly hair becomes glossy, pliable and strengthened; lost hair regrows with lively expression; falling hair is checked and established; thin hair thickens and faded or gray hairs resume their original color. Its operation is sure and harmless. It cures dandruff, heals all humors and keeps the scalp cool, clean and soft—under which conditions diseases of the scalp are impossible. As a dressing for ladies' hair the Vigor is praised for its grateful and agreeable perfume and valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts.
